Conference Ends Its Sessions Valuable Suggestions Made.

The copyright conference ended its sixth and last session this afternoon at the City Club. It was called merely for the purpose of exchanging views. Thirty-five delegates, representing twenty-six organized interests, met for the discussion of a subject of vital interest to all, yet they took no vote, nor had they a presiding officer.

It was decided two years ago to compile the objections to the present copyright law, with a view to obtaining ultimately the necessary corrections in the law.

Representatives of all branches of workers interested in copyright law were invited to meet the Librarian of Congress, the Register of Copyrights and representatives of the Treasury Department, and as the majority of the interests were centred here the Librarian of Congress moved his office to this city. The conferrees met with a common purpose—the improvement of the Copyright Law. And to this end the delegates of each of the interests represented presented such amendments as appeared important to them. These suggestions were read, discussed, criticised and filed with the Librarian of Congress, and will be carefully examined next sumner. In September another conference will be held, at which the matters will be brought up for further discussion and revision, and later, just before Congress convenes, a final meeting will be held for their further consideration.

Herbert Putnam, the Librarian of Congress, declared last evening that he was satisfied with the ultimate success of the plan. He said:

I am taking back to Washington invaluable material, and when this is presented a second and third time to the representatives of these same interests I am sure we shall have the mak-ing of a far better copyright law than could be devised in any other manner.

SUIT FOR PORT CHESTER.

Realty Company Attacks Gotshall's Concern-Interborough Alliance.

Suit was brought in the Supreme Court of New-York County yesterday by the Westchester and Bronx Realty Company, attacking the charter of the New-York and Port Chester Railroad Company on the ground that $1,000 a mile of proposed road, as required by law, was not paid in, as stated in the affidavit accompanying the filing of the Port Chester certificate in 1901. The attorneys for the plaintiffs state that it was admitted in testimony before the Railroad Commission, in the application of the New-York and Port Chester company, that the amount required by law to be paid in was not so paid before the affidavit was made to that effect. The Westchester and Bronx Realty Company is the owner of sixty-three acres of land traversed by the proposed route of the Port Chester company.

A decision against the Port Chester company in the present suit would count heavily in favor of its rival, the New-York, Westchester and Boston Railway Company, which has announced that it will begin work on its road next Monday. This announcement followed the recent refusal of the Attorney General to bring suit, instigated by the Port Chester company, to invalidate the Westchester objects.

Announcement was made yesterday that an alliance had been made between the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New-York and Port Chester Railroad Company looking to a connection and transfer of passengers which will be of great benefit to the residents of The Bronx and Westchester. The agreement provides for connection and transfer privileges at or near 17(1+st. and Poston Road. Only a single five cent fare will be between Poston Road. Only a single five cent fare will be charged.

The co-operation of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company is also promised in the effort to get the needed franchises for the proposed connecting link. A clause in the agreement also promises that the New-York City Interborough Company, now constructing surface lines in The Bronx, will transport passengers of the New-York and Port Chester Railroad Company over its surface lines for a single fare of not more than four cents.

W. C. Gotschall, president of the Port Chester, last night confirmed the agreement between the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the New-York and Port Chester Railroad Company. The silliance also provides for the running of the cars of the latter road downtown over the 2d-ave, and 3d-ave, elevated roads and into Brooklyn through the new Interborough subway, Mr. Gotschall denied that suit had again been brought against his company.

GERMANS CHEER FRENCHMEN.

Many Arrivals at Berlin to Attend the Crown Prince's Wedding.

Berlin, June 2.—The French delegates to the wed-ding of the Crown Prince-General de Lacroix, François Arago and Rear Admiral de Marollesarrived here to-day and were cheered by a considerable crowd. This probably is the first time in a generation that Frenchmen have been cheered in the streets of Berlin. The Emperor called on them later, and also called on Grand Duke Michael of Russia, the representative of Emperor Nicholas, who arrived in Berlin to-day. Emperor William, Prince Henry of Prussia, Crown Prince Frederick William and other members of the royal family were kept busy during the afternoon driving to railroad stations to receive the royal guests. The arrivals this afternoon included the Duke of Aosta, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, and the Duchess of Aosta; the Duke of Oporto, cousin of King Victor Emmanuel, and Prince Arthur of Connaught, son of the Duke of Connaught, all of whom had large retinues. Emperor William entertained at dinner all the wedding guests who arrived up to this evening.

Mr. Warren to Conduct Summer Concerts at St. Nicholas Garden This Season.

On Thursday evening, June 15, the St. Nicholas Garden will be opened for a summer season of high class music, and Richard Henry Warren, until re-cently the choir master at St. Bartholomew's and the present conductor of the Church Choral Soclety, will be the conductor of the orchestra, which will number fifty players, and will be augmented each night with solo performers. An announcement that some such concerts were being planned was printed in this column the other day, and at that time it was hinted that Mr. Warren might be the conductor. Although he has been associated with concerts of a quite different sort, he was the choice of the men who have organized this latest attempt to give New-York a summer music garden on a par with those of the Continent. Numerous prominent men, including Bishop Potter, Seth Low, D. O. Mills and William S. Sleane are among the subscribers. The prices will be low, I purchasing the best seat in the house. Refreshments will be served. L. G. Charlton is to be the manager. The opening programme will be announced in due time.

Four of the five French musicians who have caused Mr. Damrosch so much trouble with the Musical Union were at last able to appear with his orchestra at the New York Roof Garden last night.

Nearly four hundred of the Mystic Shriners from Mecca Temple saw Jefferson De Angells in "Fantana" last night, at the Lyric Theatre. All of these nobles were their red fezzes, and the chorus of the musical comedy appeared in similar head-gear. Mr. De Angells, who is himself a Mystlo Shriner, made his first entrance riding a property camel, and, in the course of the entertainment, he and other members of the company interpolated several jokes of a nature personal to the principal members of the temple. Mr. De Angelis also added two special verses to his song, "Tammany," and Katle Barry sang a special verse with "My Word," Dostoyefski's "Crime and Punishment" last night at the Thalia Theatre, for the first time in this city. Unlike the dramatization of the same author's "Brothers Karamazoff," produced a fort-night ago, "Crime and Punishment" is a well knit play, with several characters of importance, and not introduced merely to make the central figure surrounded by a semblance of a play. The psy-chology of the genesis and execution of the crime for an ideal principle is brought out with the force of the original, and Orieneff's appearance in his or the original, and Orienen's appearance in his famous part of Raskolnikoff-Rodion (the student in Mansfield's version of the same play) would have afforded an opportunity to compare the methods of the two actors had Mr. Mansfield put on his play. The play will be repeated on Saturday night.

Walter Damrosch, at the roof garden of the New York Theatre, will play this programme to-night:

SAYS THE YACHT BALKS.

So Frederic Thompson Wants His Lease Money Back.

Yachts that can go and won't go, Frederic Thompson, of Thompson & Dundy, thinks, should be made to go. He paid $3,500 in advance for the use of the steam yacht Lucille from June 21 until October 1, 1904. He declares that every time the yacht went out something was the matter with her. The yacht was chartered from Franklin Haines, her owner, who is president of the Empire Paving and Construction Company.

Mr. Thompson gave her up, and told the owner that he wanted his money back, or at least $2,263 82, representing the proportion of time that he did not use her. Mr. Haines has declined, through his counsel, Dr. Ullo, of No. 11 Broadway, to pay back the amount, so Mr. Thompson has instructed his lawyers, Wingate & Cullen, of No. 20 Nassau-Si., to bring suit for the amount.

BIONDI LETTERS READ.

General di Cesnola Tried to Save Sculptor's Feelings.

Several letters were a feature of the trial yesterday in the suit of Ernesto Biondi, the Italian sculptor, to recover $200,000 damages from the Metro-politan Museum of Art for fallure to exhibit his bronze group "Saturnalia." The examination of Dr. Luigi Roversi, secretary of the late General Louis P. di Cesnola, was resumed at the morning session. Dr. Roversi testified regarding the letters which he had written, as instructed by General di Cesnola.

A question by Gilbert Ray Hawes, for the plaintiff, as to whether or not there was a private exhibition of the group at night when the trustees saw it and approved it was objected to by Elihu Root. The objection was sustained. The doctor said he did not hear of any objection to the group on the ground of immorality. Objection was also successfully made by Mr. Root to Mr. Hawes's question as to whether General di Cesnola performed his duties as director strictly according to the bylaws of the museum. He wanted to prove not only that the general had the power to make a contract, but that he exercised it. In his cross-examination of Dr. Roversi Mr. Root offered in evidence a letter to General di Cesnola from Costantino Blonds, brother of the sculptor, dated September 1, 1901. It was admitted, despite Mr. Hawes's objection, and was, in part, as follows:

The Marquis Carignano, the acting Italian Minister at Washington, writes me relative to his recommendations to you in favor of the work of my brother. Erneto Blondi, the "Saturnalia," to the effect that the same might he bought by the Metropolitan Museum of Art, of which you are the honored director.

The marquis tells me that for the present the Museum lacks the funds necessary for the purchase of such an acquisition, but he adds the gratifying statement that notwithstanding this, you have taken line consideration his request and are willing to do everything possible to acquire the desired end without, however, embarrassing the finances of the Museum.

A letter from Dr. Roverst to Ernesto Biondi, dated March 27, 1903, was in part as follows:

The decision of the board of trustees has been kept secret by the general. No newspapers in New-York or abroad could learn anything about it. Therefore nothing has been printed or published. Your feelings as an artist and your interests have been completely safeguarded. That is the reason why the general has requested me to keep you informed confidentially and in a friendly way, rather than in an official communication. Anyway, the general requests me to tell you that if you think proper to send a petition to the board of trustees, claiming indemnity, you can do that and send it to him, and he will present it at the first meeting, which will occur on May 18.

Charles Stowart Smith a trustee of the Museum.

Charles Stewart Smith, a trustee of the Museum, at the afternoon session testified that he saw the group when it was put up in the new east wing, and he voted for the resolution passed by the trus-tees to have it removed from public exhibition, in view of hostile criticism. Asked whether prior to that meeting he had expressed any dissatisfaction with the group, he replied: "I did-to my wife. I don't recollect any one else."

Mr. Smith declared he did not know of his own knowledge that the National Sculpture Society had passed a resolution objecting to the acceptance of the group by the Museum. He said no such resolution had been sent by the society to the trustees.

John Crosby Brown, a trustee of the Museum, said he, when with General di Cesnola, saw the group for the first time in the new east wing. He objected to it to the general, and he voted for the resolution of the trustees to remove it.

Constantino Biondi, being recalled, said he was present at a reception in the east wing in January, 1902, when over a hundred guests saw the group, flanked on one side by Macmonnies's "Bacchante" and on the other by Barnard's "Two Nat-ures of Man." Among the trustees present were Charles Stewart Smith, John Crosby Brown and Frederick W. Rhinelander, Mr. Blondi heard no criticism of the group from anybody.

G. Brenna, counsellor at Rome, wrote in May,

1903, to General di Cesnola, expressing the sculptor's surprise that the group had been "set eside on the specious ground of immorality." The reply from General di Cesnola to G. Brenna was dated May 18, 1908, and was in part as follows:

The decision of the board of trustees was that the group, "Saturnulia," should be removed from the hall where it had been placed, and so without regard to the legal consequences which must follow I could do nothing else but execute the order. Mr. Blondi said that Frederick W. Rhinelander wrote to his brother that the law committee of the Museum offered him $1,000 in settlement. That was refused and the present action was brought. At 5 o'clock the trial was adjourned till Wednesday morning next.

The plant on the East River front at Long Island City used for digging the Pennsylvania Railroad tunnel had a narrow escape from destruction by fire about 8 o'clock yesterday morning. were discovered in one of a group of buildings. The street is narrow and was choked with traffic. Employes of the contractors laid several lines of hose from hydrants in the yard, but no water flowed from the pipes. The local fire companies got quickly to work and managed to prevent the fire doing much damage. Had the fire got a little more headway the plant would have been crippled and the tunnel work delayed for menths.

VOTE $50,000 FOR GREEN MEMORIAL.

Board of Estimate Act on Committee's Request-Rest by Subscription. Jacob A. Cantor, N. Tayler Phillips, Isaac N. Seligman, Charles R. Lamb and Edward Hagaman

Hall, representing the executive committee of the Andrew H. Green Memorial Association, appeared before the Board of Estimate and Apportionment yesterday in favor of an appropriation for the Green memorial entrance to Central Park. On motion of Controller Grout an appropriation of $50,000 was unanimously voted for that purpose. Mr. Cantor said that the executive committee had ome to an agreement with the park officials concerning the general lines of the memorial entrance, which is to be at 110th-st. and 7th-ave. The plan first sketched has been modified so as not to encroach on the park area at all. It will cost from $75,000 to $100,000. The amount needed above $50,000 appropriated by the city will be raised by subscriptions.

SULTAN CHECKS FRANCE.

The Moroccan Question Again Assumes Serious Aspect.

Paris, June 2.-Although official confirmation is withheld, it is now generally accepted here that the report from Tangler to the effect that the Sultan of Morocco had declined the French propositions for the reform of Morocco unless approved by an international conference was correct. This is widely commented on as amounting to a check, if not a failure, of the French mission sent to Fez, as well as a check to the entire French policy in Morocco. Only the absorbing attention given to King Alfonso prevents a renewal of the storm of protest against Germany, as an international conference would be considered to be the result of the influence of Count von Tattenbach-Ashold, head of the German mission to Fez, with the Sultan.

The French officials continue to rely on Great Britain, Italy and Spain refusing to join the proposed conference, which, with the refusal of France and Russia, and possibly the indifference of the United States, would leave the conference without any membership except Germany. It is recognized, however, that, even without an international conference, the Sultan's refusal to agree to the reforms proposed by France continues the situation which France sought to terminate.

London, June 2.-The situation over Morocco is viewed with no little concern in diplomatic circles here. Indirectly the Sultan's refusal to accept the French proposals is regarded as a rebuff to Great Britain, but it is understood that rather than risk further complications France will be likely to join the other powers in a conference at Fez, and Great Britain will follow suit. Should France decline to enter the conference, Great Britain likewise will decline, and serious difficulty may ensue.

Kaid Sir Harry MacLean, formerly of the British army and recently retired from the command of the Sultan's bodyguard, arrived in England to-night. In an interview he said that the land to-night. In an interview he said that the Sultan's action was natural. The Sultan was quite willing to receive assistance from other powers in carrying out reforms and in the upbuilding of Morocco, but he would continue to decline to give any one power a monopoly of the direction of these reforms. Sir Harry declined to discuss the most recent developments or the attitude of Germany. He said, however, that the financial and economic condition of Morocco was much better than generally believed, and that the Sultan was determined to maintain his independence.

OUTSTARES FIVE MEN.

Woman Sits Over Posthole and Defies Pole Raisers.

Mrs. Lina Dawsey, who owns a cottage in Main-st., Tottenville, Richmond and a gang of polemen employed by the New-York and New-Jersey Telephone Company spent two hours last evening trying to stare each other down. Mrs.

The gang had been erecting poles to replace a wornout line. In replacing one in front of Mrs. Dawsey's home they choose a new place. Mrs. Dawsey forbade it. The men disregarded her. Mrs. Dawsey took a chair, and, placing it over the hole, sat down in it. The polemen at last withdrew. Mrs. Dawsey this morning will resume her seat.

RECEPTION AT COOPER UNION.

Several Scholars Receive Prizes-Work of the Class Commended.

Hundreds of relatives and friends of the scholars who have studied in the last term at Cooper Insti-tute filled the ground floor of the old building last night to view the work of the pupils. It was the forty-sixth annual reception of the Male Art Department, and all of the exhibits came in for their

Should Be Against Political Influence.

Commencement week at New-York University began yesterday afternoon with an address to the granduates of the School of Pedagogy at the Washington Square Building, by Dr. William H. Maxwell, City Superintendent of Schools, on "What May Be Expected of the Trained Teacher." Reprise of 255 in gold from the Cooper Union Alumin Said:

Other professions have their codes of chick, and I would urge is that a tenther should have theirs. The first point is think teachers should have theirs. The first point is think teachers should have theirs. The first point is the standard of the profession. In many site of the profession is the standard of the profession is the profession.
